Friday, November 26. 1714.

From the Hague Courant, dated Nov. 26.

Cadix, October 29.

THE two French Ships from St. Malo, which we have formerly mention'd were were bound to the South-Sea, lie in the Bay ready to sail, waiting only a fair Wind. Our two Ships for the Honduras, and the Register-Ship for Caracco, will certainly sail in a Fortnight. We have no manner of Advice concerning the Flotilla, the two Ships from Buenos-Ayres, or the four from Cheves, which are expected from Carthagena. The Unity, Captain Bishop, from Cork, and the Sea-Nymph from Dublin, are arrived in this Bay, where all the foreign Merchant-Ships still lie without loading or unloading, because they will not go behind the Puntales, no Order being yet come from Court for their Relief.

From the Hag. Cour. Nov. 28. and Leid. Gaz. Nov. 30.

Barcelona, Nov. 10. Men are at Work in rebuilding the Houses that were beaten down in the Siege, but the Breaches in the Walls are not touched. We expect on the contrary that the Walls will be quite pulled down, and the Materials employed in building a Citadel upon the Sea-Side of the Town. They talk also of demolishing the Fortifications of Tortosa and Terragona. The Inhabitants of the open Country whose Lands have lain uncultivated all the War-time, are now ordered to Plough them up, and Corn is given out to that purpose to those who are not able to buy it. Above 20 Ships laden with Provisions are lately arrived from Certe in Languedoc, so that nothing is wanting in this City: And a good Quantity of Ammunition is put into Fort Monjuich. The Miquelets and Volunteers continue to infest the open Country, but divers Detachments pursue them, and those that are taken are hanged upon the Spot. Here has been a terrible Storm for four Days past, and many Wrecks and dead Bodies have been cast a-shore.

Rome, Nov. 10. Yesterday the Pope returned hither from Castel-Gandolfo in perfect Health. He was met at the Church of St. John de Lateran by the sacred College, the Senate of the City, and a great Number of Nobility, and complimented upon the Recovery of his Health; after which they followed him on Horseback to the Palace of the Quirinal. The Constable Colonna, who has been long indisposed, died last Monday of a stoppage of Urine occasioned by three Stones, which upon opening his Body were found lying cross the Orifice. The Corpse is embalmed, and carried to Palatino to be buried among his Ancestors.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated Nov. 22.

Vienna, Nov. 7. The Baron de Plettenberg and the Heer Heimisch, Envoys from the Bishop of Munster and Paderborn, received Yesterday from the Emperour the Investiture of the Estates of the Bishoprick of Paderborn for their Master.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated Dec. 1.

Vienna, Nov. 17. A Minister from the Elector of Cologne is arrived here: But we understand that another will come to beseech in solemn Manner the Emperour to restore to that Prince the Estate and Dignity he formerly possessed, and a like solemn Ambassy is expected from the Elector of Bavaria. The Palatine Ministers on the other Hand inflexibly adhere to their former Declaration, that their Master will not surrender the upper Palatinate without a sufficient Equivalent, which causes an Apprehension that the Bavarians may attempt by force to recover it, and the Palatines on the contrary defend themselves in the Possession of it, and thereby new Troubles arise.

Basle, Nov. 21. The French began the 15th to demolish Hunninguen and the Forts that lie on the Right Side of the Rhine. They employ at present but 600 Men in that Work, but will enlarge the Number to 2000. The Imperial General Arnau, to whom the Government of Brisac is given, has sent to Count de Bourg, who commands in Alsace, to know when that Fortrels shall be surrendered to him: And that Count has desired he will meet him at Strasburg to settle the Points necessary to be observed by both Parties. In the mean time we learn that Friburg will be first delivered to the Imperialists, and Munich at the same time to the Bavarians: And 4 or 5 Days after Old Brisac will be given up to the Imperialists against Ingolstadt to the Bavarians. General Harfch, who is to take Possession of Friburg, has let Count de Bourg know that his Men will begin to march that Way the 23th, and on the 26th and 27th they will be cantoned in the Villages round about that Town.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated Nov. 27.

Luz, Nov. 20. An Assembly of the States of this Country is appointed for the 26th Instant, wherein 'tis said it will be proposed that an Equivalent shall be given for the Citadel and the Forts which the Hollanders are to possess: For which some propose the Towns of Mafeyk and Hasselt, others are for the Sum of two Millions in Money, and that the Fortifications of those Places shall be demolished. But his Electoral Highness our Prince desires that the restoring those two Places in the Condition they are now in be insisted on, which will make much to do here; for the Chapter of the Cathedral, which make the first Bench of our States, do all they can to persuade Men that the demolishing the Fortifications is absolutely necessary, in order to take from our Prince the Occasion of keeping Forces on Foot; while on the other hand, those of the Prince's Party labour to obtain that 600 Foot and 100 Horse shall be kept in Service to Garrison those Places; but 'tis believed this is what the States will not agree to, but rather desire that the Fortifications be slighted. Concerning the choosing of a Bavarian Prince for Coadjutor of our Bishoprick, People are much divided; for those who endeavour to gain over the Scrupulous have applied themselves to the Party who are called the Imperial or Holland, believing that the other which is called the Prince's Party will always give their Votes for it; but these last being dissatisfied because the best Offices and Places are promised to the other, set themselves against that Election.

London, November 26.

Yesterday the King's Proclamation was published, commanding all Officers in the Plantations to continue in their Places till his Majesty's further Pleasure be known, although the six Months from her late Majesty's Death should be expired before that arrive, in order to prevent any vacancy in the Execution of those Offices.

We hear that Informations being brought by the Attorney-General against 14 Persons for Riot at Reading on the Day of the King's Coronation, Council were heard Yesterday in the King's Bench Court at Westminster for the Defendants, against the said Informations being brought in that Court: And on a full Hearing, the Court received the Informations, and ordered a Tryal there accordingly.
